James A. Nolen

Nolen opens business

James A. "Jim" Nolen, formerly associated with Falling River Realty Co., has gone into business for himself in Appomattox County.

Nolen, who has had his broker's license for about a year and a half, has set up offices at the former Falling River Realty site, next to Fashions 'R Us on the lower level of Triangle Plaza Shopping Center.

Nolen says he will continue in real estate sales, as well as conduct appraisals and handle some property management duties.

Nolen holds a bachelor of science degree in agricultural economics from VPI&SU, and a masters degree in Extension Education from N. C. State University.

A former agricultural officer with the old Fidelity American Bank, Nolen has a strong background in agricultural analysis, appraisals, planning and management services.

Before working for Fidelity, Nolen served with VPI as an area farm management agent.

Jim and his wife, Paige, have three children, Ann Paige, Martha, and Thomas.

Nolen says his office will be managed by Hazel Saunders and open from 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday, and 8:30 a.m. to noon on Saturday. His business phone number is 352-7400.

Dennis Ford is promoted

Dennis Ford, a native Virginian, has been named Coordinator of Religious Affairs at Virginia Tech, Blacksburg.

Ford, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel T. Ford of Route 1, Concord, was born and reared in Richmond. He attended Hermitage High School before going to Macalister College in St. Paul, Minn. Ford earned a B.A. in English and for the next two years worked at several positions. It was in 1973 that he began studying at the Iliff School of Theology, a Methodist seminary in Denver. Here Ford, although not a Methodist, earned his M. Div. In 1976 he went on to Syracuse to earn his Ph. D. in religion.

He arrived at Tech on August 3 to begin his new position.

According to Gordon Brown, director of University Development Services, and Ford's supervisor, Ford will be less involved in pastoral roles and more involved in student affairs roles.

"We think Dr. Ford is highly qualified and we are delighted to have him here," said Brown.

The Fords have purchased a home in Blacksburg but will be unable to move in until Sept. 10. In the meantime, his wife, Ann, originally from Long Island, is living in Buffalo. Mrs. Ford is a physical therapist from Long Island, is living in Buffalo. Mrs. Ford is a physical therapist earning her master's degree in health science eduction.

The Fords have an 18 month-old son, Justin.

Postal program

Morris is assigned here

As part of the postal service's ongoing emphasis on Management Development, Mrs. Cassandra Morris, superintendent Support Services, of the Lynchburg Post Office, has been assigned to the Appomattox Post Office for a 30-day period under the "Postmaster Associate Training Program."

Mrs. Morris will train under Mrs. Ora McCoy, postmaster, and will be exposed to all operations of the office, beginning on Monday, August 31, 1981.

Mrs. Morris, who has been with the postal service for 15½ years, began her career as a part-time flexible clerk and has held other positions as secretary to the postmaster, relief window clerk, personnel assistant, supervisor employment services, EEO administrative officer, and district women's program coordinator.

She has served on postal committees as secretary combined federal campaign, regional audit team, MSC women's advisory council and numerous promotion advisory boards.

Mrs. Morris is an active church member, serving as assistant secretary and Sunday school teacher of the First Church of Jesus, Holiness Faith of Lynchburg.

She is the mother of two grown sons, Jack, a Second Class Petty Officer, U. S. Navy and Jeff, a student at Central Virginia Community College.

Mrs. Morris, who was educated in the Lynchburg Public Schools, has participated in civic and community activities throughout her professional career and has been involved in such organizations as the local PTA, Lynchburg Veters League, NAACP, and YWCA.

She recently resigned from the Lynchburg School Board after serving more than 4 years as a member and one year as chairman of the Southside Regional School Board, Board of Directors, Virginia School Board Association, and the National Council for Basic Education.

In spite of her busy schedule she still finds time to enjoy such hobbies as reading, sewing, and cross-stitching.
